FORTY MINUTES WITH THE POPE

Emperor of Germany a Visitor at the Vatican.

YOUNG PRINCES PRESENTED

that they be sent to Berlin and Constantinople.

At 9:30 the emperor and the princes, accompanied by the imperial suite and escorted by culrassiers, drove to the Caffaretti palace, the residence of the German ambassador. The palace is on top of Capitol hill and commands a view of the whole of Rome. On his way to the residence of the ambassador Emperor William was cheered most heartily. Outside the embassy his majesty was met by the German residents of Rome, among whom were the pupils of the German schools, who brought flowers to the emperor. These his majesty graciously accepted, saluting at the enthusiastic "hoch" of his subjects.

Pope and Emperor Meet.

When Pope Leo was advised of the arrival of his guests the door was thrown open and the pontiff appeared, He was dressed in white with the exception of a small cape of red velvet, trimmed with ermine. The emperor advanced alone, making a profound bow. The pontiff inquired in French as to the emperor's health. Emperor William then presented his two sons. His majesty and the pontiff then retired to the latter's private study. The audience lasted for forty minutes. At the end of this time the princes were summoned and spoke to the pontiff.

The imperial party then paid a brief visit to Cardinal Rampolla. Upon his three previous visits to the vatican Emperor William returned direct to the arrival of his guests the door was thrown open and the pontiff appeared. mained standing before the glided throne which had been prepared purposely for him. Among the musical pieces rendered at the service was a Dutch hymn of the sixteenth century. This hymn was popular in Holland during the war with Spain. It is a great favorite of his majesty, and it was given today at his especial request. After the congregation had departed Emperor William and Count von Buelow remained behind to visit the magnificent throne room of the Caffaretti palace. The windows of the throne room were closed and the electric lights were turned on in order to

After this inspection his majesty, After this inspection his majesty, clad in the blue uniform of a general of the guards, drove to the Odescalchi palace, the official residence of the Prussian minister to the holy see, Here his majesty had luincheon with Cardinals Rampolla, Gotti and Agliardi. This legation luncheon is quite an unusual occurrence. Cardinal Rampolla is called the vice pope, as he now conducts the entire machinery of the church. Cardinal Gotti is prefect of the congregation of the propaganda, and Cardinal Tgliardi is the most liberal member of the sacred college. Rome seldom sees cardinals driving through the streets and being received in state, and the people were much in-

The imperial carriage stopped at the noble staircase, where Monsignor Cagalano de Azevedo, the major domo, helped the emperor to ascend. He presented the German papal chamberlains, Count Pecci, nephew of the pope; Prince Rospigliosi, commandant of the noble guard, and other high dignitaries of the pontifical court. When asked if he desired to use the elevator the emperor replied that he preferred to mount the stairs. At the first landing his majesty was met by CROWDS WATCHED PROCESSION

Rome, May 3.—Emperor William arose early this morning and was greeted by bright, sunny weather, in contrast to the clouds of yesterday. His majesty held a long conference with Chancellor von Buelow. He looked over the dispatches concerning the situation in Macedonia, expressed his views thereon and gave instructions that they be sent to Berlin and Combined to the emperor replied that he preferred to mount the stairs. At the first landing his majesty was met by the famous servants of the antechamber ber, in rich red brocade, flanked by members of the Swiss guards, in breast plates and helmets with red plumes, the new uniform inaugurated at the jubilee. The young princes were especially struck with the uniforms of the noble guard. Upon arriving at the Salle Clementina his majesty was received by the major domos and other personages of the private antechamber. Before reaching the antechamber his majesty received homage from a group of seven German bishops who are now in Rome.

Attended Church.

At 10 o'clock, surrounded by the personnel of the German embassy and the Prussian legation to the holy see, his majesty attended divine service. Prominent members of the German colony were admitted to the place of worship. Throughout the service the emperor remained standing before the gilded throne which had been prepared purposely for him. Among the musical pieces rendered at the service was a bicces rendered service to the vatican Emperor William returned direct to the quirinal. This course is supposed to imply that his majesty wished to pay particular deference to the feelings of the vatican. There was another new departure during this visit of the emperor. Previously Cardinal Rampolla had returned the imperial visit to the vatican at the Prussian legation and had found only the Prussian minister. Today, however, Emperor William to cardinal most cordially and had a long conference with him.

Emperor William presented to the pope a large photograph of the Metz cathedral. The pope expressed his thanks for this gift, and remarked that the Metz cathedral greatly resembled that at Reims. Emperor William was surprised at the quickness of the ponitiff in remarking that the one cathedral was a reproduction of the other.

Motto of the Directory.

Motto of the Directory.

The motto of the directory people is not Howe, but Howel. For fuel they seem to have Cole, Coke and Wood. Everything Burns. In one place you can see a Cowburn, and yet there are not many Sparks in the book. As one advances one can see Broadwater, and presently you come to a Lake or two and five Ponds. There is real Water and the Waters show Spray. There are eleven Shores to the Lake and only one Beach, and near the Brink is a Craig from which one can see plenty of Fish. There is one Whale, besides eight Haddock, eleven Seal, some Trout and a Soule.

Nearby is a Forest with all kinds of strange wood, including Birch. Crabtree, Greenwood, Westwood, Wedgewood and Swartwood and one Bigwood, although there is one still Bigger. While there is no grass, there are several promising Blades and a whole menagerie of animals, including five Foxes, some Lyon, eight Peacock, seventeen Robbins, nineteen Swan, five Steeds and some Wolffs. With all this promise of sport there is only one Hunter and there is a Fisherman or two. There are two Rivers and one of them is Riley.

There is not a wife in the book, although one can find Woman six times.

two. There are two flivers and one of them is Riley.

There is not a wife in the book, although one can find Woman six times, and there are several Husbands, although, odd as it may seem, there is only one Husband. There are Marshes, Boggs and Soggs, and perhaps this accounts for the fact that there is only one Town and near it a solitary Tree. The place has a deserted appearance, for there are only three Ladds, four Kidds and three Tripletts, and some of these are Howling, probably because there is only one Doll for every Child. In the rear end of the book there are twelve Weavers with thirty-five Webbs. One Guy asked the Baker for a favor the other day, but he replied: "I am Donahue," and now you can see him Grieve four times in the directory.

BELASCO'S NEW PLAY HISSED IN BERLIN

Berlin, May 3.—David Belasco's "Du Barry" was produced for the first time in Germany at the Theatre des Westens last night. Frau Odilon of Vienna appeared in the title role.

The play was splendidly staged and the house was filled. It was not considered a success, however, and it was greeted with much hissing. The critics this morning exhaust their vocabularies in ridiculing the play.
